PRINTED BY STEPHEN AUSTIN AND SONS.

1887.

BUT few words are needed by way of preface. I am conscious that there must necessarily be faults and inaccuracies in a record of this kind. I can only say that I have done my best.

It is very pleasant to have to thank so many friends all over the world for much valuable help. I only hope they will not be disappointed with the result to which they have contributed. To the Rev. W. D. Fenning I owe the photograph, which Messrs. Dawson, of 23, Farringdon Street, E.C., have so skilfully reproduced.

I trust that each lover of Haileybury will "commend and amend" this endeavour to bind together past, present, and future more closely than before.

HISTORICAL NOTES.

I have been allowed to prefix to this slight summary of our history the interesting article which appeared in The Haileyburian when the School attained its majority. It may be instructive to see to some extent how our various buildings rose and our different institutions grew up. We are apt to resist all innovation at the outset, and then to rush to the opposite extreme of unreasoning adherence when the dangerous reform has been once introduced.

TWENTY-ONE YEARS AGO.

"On September 21st, 1862, Haileybury began its new life as a Public School. A dismal period had intervened since the time that the old East India College had been closed; for long it was absolutely empty, though the solitude was broken for a few months by the arrival of a regiment from India, fresh from the Mutiny. One can imagine that Hertford Heath was a fine recruiting station for the tired veterans, but the building was not suited for barracks, and it was soon again deserted. For a while there was a talk of its becoming the Union Workhouse, but happily a better fate was in store for the place. The enterprize of several county gentlemen, and the energy of Mr. Stephen Austin, successfully carried through a scheme for turning it into a School. Mr. Arthur G. Butler, a Rugby Master, was appointed head, and we entered into existence just twenty-one years ago. But how different the place was then! Imagine it after three years of neglect, only hastily got ready for a somewhat uncertain number of boys. The rooms, the Chapel, the Hall, musty and dismal to a degree, the grass in the Quadrangle like a neglected meadow, the paths badly gravelled, whilst on them stood furniture and piles of crockery, which had yet to be taken in doors, after the arrival of the boys. The gardens and grounds round about, though always beautiful, were rankly grown with vegetation and weeds, and felled timber obstructed progress in most directions. Arrival at such a place must have produced an oppressive feeling at any rate to those in charge. We trust we shall not be breaking confidence if, in proof of the want of furniture, we tell how one master brought down with him, only the day before the opening day, his bed and bedding, but very nearly missed having a resting-place after all, as the railway company positively refused to convey it as personal luggage! However, things got settled somehow, thanks to the energy of Mr.

Butler and Mr. Hensley; nor must we omit the names of Benjamin Jones and George Dorset, who were true pillars of support on those opening days, as they were for long afterwards. The latter, however, caused some confusion at one stage of the proceedings. He had been told to collect all the boys' keys as they arrived, in order that the Matron might unpack their boxes. This he did, and took her the whole fifty mixed together, and without any names to them! Those interested in Permutations may calculate how many times each key would have to be tried. Poor Mrs. Cope—let us hope she did not use any very bad language! Those who knew her will remember her temper was sometimes ruffled. Besides Mr. Butler and Mr. Hensley, Mr. Charles Walford and Mr. Reade were Masters here the first term, and between them taught the fifty-four boys who had come. The class-rooms they used have long ago been altered, or disappeared. Between the Master's House and the Lodge there were two big lecture-rooms, with large lantern skylights, the lower one was the head form-room, the next Mr. Hensley's, whilst Mr. Walford and Mr. Reade had form-rooms at the other side of the Lodge. Two Dormitories were opened (the present Lawrence and Edmonstone), Mr. Hensley was Master of the lower, and Mr. C. Walford of the upper one, and the space now filled by the Big School was then occupied by their dormitory class-rooms and their own private rooms. The Houses wore then as now the familiar blue- or red-striped caps (Lawrence and Trevelyan), and went by no other name but the 'Blues' and the 'Reds.' As they were the first filled, they outstripped the other later ones for many a term in games; indeed it was long before any other house aspired even to challenge them. For the first two or three years the match between 'Reds' and 'Blues' was the great event of the term; and well can we remember how all the school flocked to see them playing for 'Cock House.' The rivalry between them was tremendous; it was intensified of course by the fact that they were the only two possible rivals for supremacy at that time. Their feud was not merely in games, they carried it into private life, and as those were days when fights were much more frequent than now, the state of Haileybury was somewhat like that of Verona, in the time of the Montagues and Capulets. Mr. Charles Walford left at the end of the first term, and his brother, who has but just left us, took his place. Mr. Reade, however, succeeded to his house (the Blues). There were 76 boys the second term, and the numbers went on steadily increasing, so that at the beginning of the second year the numbers were 173, whilst the third year was begun with 255. As they were required, new dormitories were opened in the Clock House, under Mr. H. Walford, Mr. Couchman, Mr. Prance, and Mr. Price. In the summer of 1864, when Mr. Hensley married, he and Mr. Couchman changed dormitories, taking their boys with them of course, Mr. Hensley going to his present one, so as to be near his House, and Mr. Couchman to the Lower dormitory, which was afterwards named Edmonstone. It was not till the School had been open for a year that the Clock House was built, to make Masters' rooms for the new House. Let us go back to the beginning however. The first boys to arrive were the two Michells from Yorkshire. The elder of whom afterwards became Captain of the XI, and later on commanded a company of the 60th Rifles at the Battle of Ulundi. They had mistaken the day and came a day too soon, so they were absolutely the first Haileyburians.

"As the other boys arrived they soon made friends,—all were new alike, so there was a glorious equality, and the first thing young Haileybury as a body did was to run round and round the quadrangle hurraing and making a tremendous noise. Those must have been days when boys were more unsophisticated than now, for during the first week one of the smaller ones came up to a Master who is still here, and putting his hand in his, said, 'Do come and play with us, its no fun without you.'

"Work of course had to begin soon, but alas! through some mistake of the booksellers, there were no books ready, and the first two days had to be spent in a constant round of Arithmetic set on the black-board. We have in our hands a time-table of lessons for the first term, in Mr. Butler's own handwriting, and as it will probably interest some, we give it in full :—

7.—Chapel.
7.15—8.15.—1st Lesson.
8.20.—Breakfast.
9.5.—Preparation.
10—11.—Say Lesson.
11.15—12.45.—Learn and say Lesson.
1.30.—Dinner.
4 (or 3.45)—6.45.—Learn and say Lesson.
6.45.—Tea.
7.15—8.25.—Preparation.
8.30.—Chapel.
9.—Bed for small Boys.
9.30.—Bed for big Boys.
10.—All Lights put out.

Tuesday, 5.40—6.40.—Verses.
Thursday, 5—6.40.—Learn and say Lesson.

"In the old Chapel—so long and narrow—the boys all sat near the door, a 'House' on either side, and as there was no gas in those days the place was somewhat dimly lighted with candles. It must indeed have looked ghostly. For the first few nights there was no music, but a harmonium was soon bought, and Mr. Hensley became the first choir-master. In the Hall and Great School moderator lamps were used (it was before the time of paraffin oil), though there, too, candles sometimes made their appearance, presumably when oil ran out. To illustrate the various uses to which inventive youth can turn materials at its disposal, we will relate how one night, when the master of the week was late in coming in to Preparation, he found the boys had whiled away the time by melting the candles on the floor, thus making a slide more than half the length of the old Great School, which they were briskly enjoying.

"At first the Hall, as well as the Chapel, 'was a place of magnificent spaces.' The boys sat there too according to their Houses, at either side of the room, and seemed to show their rivalry in trying which House could behave the worst! It had been arranged always to give the boys pickles for dinner, but they ate such a quantity that the practice was speedily dropped. The careful soul of Mr. Jones (the steward) was vexed and considerably surprised to find that fifty boys could eat £5 worth of pickles in a fortnight!

"As may be imagined, there were many parts of the building uninhabited, a few studies which existed at the Lodge side of the quadrangle were occupied at once, but the large block on the other side were desolate, save that a few were utilized as carpenters' and locksmiths' shops, or for stores of crockery, caps, etc.; and one we recollect was given up to a scientific boy who dabbled in chemistry and photography. Many will remember the dingy groups that Berthon and Bosanquet used to take.

"During the first term, the part we now call the Clock House (it had then no projecting part or clock) was firmly believed to be haunted, and there were many who would not have gone near it at night on any account. Possibly the scarcity of light at that epoch had something to do with the belief, for the ghost, or ghosts, disappeared when the gas-works were built.

"What is now 'the Residency' was originally fitted up as the house of the second master; but Mr. Hensley preferred to live in rooms near his dormitory, and thus what had been meant for him was used as the Sick House, and continued so until the New Buildings were put up, for when Mr. Hensley did move, it was not there but to his present house.

Hailey House was also then uninhabited, and had most romantic stories attached to it. Boys used to creep in through broken windows, and roam about in the empty and dusty rooms, and one brown mark on the floor was always pointed out as the spot where a murder had been committed. Probably the legend had some connection with the pond which used to exist in the Hailey House field, near the white gates, for that was always called 'Dead Man's Pond.' The garden was a charming rambling ground. It was rankly overgrown, and had probably not seen or felt a gardener's hand for six years, when Mr. Walford first went to live there in 1865. Roses straggled in all directions, and many another flower rapidly passing into the semi-wild stage, grew carelessly beautiful. The lawn was the recognized fighting ground of the School for its first few years; and many is the carp that has been pulled out of the Hailey House pond, where in those days the fishing was entirely free and unpreserved. We regret to say that Sunday afternoon was the favourite time for the sport, but this was probably merely because the regulation tall hats made such capital baskets for the fish when caught.

"The only cricket-field was the Pavilion ground, which was not then more than half its present size. The field below the Terrace sloped gently away to the road, and though used for football, was not levelled for cricket until eighteen months later. When first it was made, it was the ground of honour, and the foreign matches were played there. Cricket and football, combined with a little poaching, were the chief amusements of those days, for there were no fives-courts to start with; those in the Avenue were built in November, 1863, and some covered ones behind the studies a little later; but the two old racquet courts in the Pavilion field were much used, and though they had no side walls, and one of them not even a back wall, it was thought a capital game. Dorset sold fives bats and racquet balls at the Lodge for the first few years. This was one of his multifarious duties, for those were the days before division of labour.

"The Grub Shop was actually in College. The front part of the form room that is now occupied by Mr. Lea* was then a lobby with doors opening out of it into form-rooms at either side. Beyond this lobby was a room about the size of a study, and this was the Grub Shop, to which Mr. Young used to come up every day from Hertford, with a gig full of hot tarts and other delicacies.

"With mention of this important department of the School we must pause for the present, and conclude these rough notes about our early infancy. R."

In the Prospectus of 1864 the heading runs, "Haileybury College (late East India College) near Hertford."

1864.—Mr. Arthur Butler was compelled to be away in 1864, but the quiet restored him to health. Mr. Hensley acted as vicegerent during the Head Master's absence. The "Field Racquet Court" was in the East India time merely a high wall with small wings at either side and a low back wall. The present building was soon erected and much in request. The Covered Racquet Court did not follow for a year or two.

* Now Mr. Lewis.—Ed.

1865.—In July, 1865, a circular was issued and funds were raised for the levelling of what is now known as the Pavilion Ground. In September Mr. Walford moved into Hailey House.

1866.—In the Autumn term a "white book" replaced the call over list which used to be sent home to give the examination order.

1867.—This was followed in the Easter term of 1867 by the Blue book, arranged much as we now know it. In the Spring of 1867 "£100 was paid, after arbitration, as compensation for damage done to the crops and fences of a neighbouring farmer whose land adjoins ours."

1867.2.—The first 100 in a house match was made by R. Branton Day for the Blues v. Reds. In old days these (Lawrence and Trevelyan) were the only two which played for Cock House.

1867.3.—The usual prohibition of fireworks was forgotten until Nov. 4, and so the whole school was allowed out after lock-up on Nov. 5th to let off their fireworks on the Pavilion field.

On Nov. 30th the first Old Boys football match was played under the captaincy of P. T. Bainbrigge. Only fifteen Old Boys appeared.

In December Mr. Arthur Butler was reluctantly compelled to resign from ill-health. According to the Lawrence "Vive la Compagnie:"

> B stands for Butler, whose excellent rule,
> Vive la Compagnie!
> In five years has made us a great Public School,
> Vive la Compagnie!

1868.1.—The Rev. E. H. Bradby, of Rugby and Harrow, was chosen to succeed Mr. Butler. The Rev. F. Brisbane Butler came as assistant master. The similarity of names led to absurd rumours that the old master was to return in a subordinate position.

On March 1st the first number of The Haileyburian appeared. The form and arrangement have remained unaltered from the start. It was a difficult matter to find the sixpence in ready money which alone could procure the new publication. Only five could raise it in U. M. 2, and one of those, I know, had to borrow the coin and forestall his next allowance.

House names were started about this time.

Mr. Reade presented the "Ball" as an Interhouse Trophy.

Article in Haileyburian in favour of "House Feeling."

Hitherto two or three of the Masters used to play football and cricket with the School team.

1868.2.—The Sanatorium was struck by lightning.

Proposal in Haileyburian (this will be abbreviated henceforward) for a Scientific Society.

Presentation of the "Clock" by Mr. Couchman for the House which had most prizes.

Haileybury beat Uppingham in the first match played; J. Spens, 53, W. P. Brooke, 29 and 43.

The Clock is accused of suffering its hands to be blown on past the hour for Chapel and thereby occasioning "loss of wind and injury to the grass." (It used to be a privilege to run across the grass plots during the last minute. It was possible to sit in a study until the first stroke of the hour before middle chapel, and yet be in time.) Some wished for a clock tower in the middle of the quadrangle in memory of Mr. Arthur Butler.

The Duke of Edinburgh asked for and obtained the addition of an extra week to the Summer Holidays.

Suggestions of a School Library; O.H. dinner; Rifle Corps; Football match with Wellington; Cricket club to take over the Grub Shop.

The "Literary Society" was set on foot by Mr. Reade. The first meeting was held in the open air under the fence outside the Hailey House garden. One burning question was whether the Society should have a distinctive mark or badge or no. The rival parties were to vote by declamation, "Badgers" or "Non-Badgers." The "Literary Paper" with its motto was the compromise. A "Convivium" or banquet was contemplated as a terminal entertainment. This was occasionally realized.

1868.3.—The Racquet shop was built and racquet and fives balls were sold by the professional, instead of being bought at the Lodge.

First debate of the Literary Society, November 21st, on the "Enfranchisement of Women."

The Masters still played for the School in matches.

1869.1.—Articles on "Our House Names" began with a life of "Sir John Lawrence."

Haileybury made its first appearance at Prince's, and scored 81 points to Rugby's 83.

Lawrence for the third time in three consecutive years had House Athletics.

An "In-time" prize was offered by Messrs. Ash, Price, and Hart. (Form masters used to punish the "lates" for Chapel until 1880. The Masters of each table in Hall were responsible for the punctuality of their own table till after 1874.)

About this time the "Cap-room" was transferred from Study 25, and Herr Scheibe relinquished the present room, which was until then a music room.

1869.2.—Uppingham on a very wet wicket scored 90 to our 80, of which Spens made 51.

Prize for swimming in clothes offered by Mr. Pitts.

J. R. Brooke won the first Haileybury first in Mods.

Proposal that "Haileybury Wanderers" should be started; that some one should be chosen to regulate B.B.S. and 2nd xi. matches.

Wellington beat us:—H. 94 and 116; W. 184 and 23 for no wickets. We won the Racquets.

1869.3.—The Committee of Games was instituted.

The Haileyburian records with gratification that it has received favourable notice in the Guardian.

The Portrait of Rev. A. G. Butler, by G. Richmond, R.A., arrived, and was hung in Hall.

Lawrence House Entertainment as usual.

In the "Occasional Notes" we read: "Efforts are being made to get a distinctive badge for the School Twenty to wear in undress." Hence the familiar silver heart.

1870.1.—"The School Library, which has been considerably enlarged, has been removed to the Upper Sixth Class room." (This was what is now Mr. Whyte's form-room. A new block of form-rooms, including the Museum, L. V., and adjacent rooms had been recently built. The "Cock Pit" and a modern side room, lighted by sky-lights, had been swept away, and the roof was heightened to the same level as Mr. Hensley's house.)

"The Committee of Games has decided that the prizes for the athletics shall not be money for the future."

The newly-formed "Glee Club" gave a concert.

The system of marking for the Ball now in use was finally adopted after much discussion.

At Prince's Spens and Pollock were beaten by Rugby 4—2.

1870.2.—Uppingham match put off because of their fever. (The match was unavoidably dropped during the migration to Borth.)

We were beaten by Wellington. W. 147 and 82; H. 61 and 167; J. Spens, not out, 68. Professional umpires, Cæsar and Mortlock, this year.

"Haileybury Wanderers" began.

1870.3.—Article in Haileyburian on "Boys won't be boys."

The "Lawrence House Entertainment" ceased as a School institution, partly because the dormitory was not strong enough to sustain the crowds.

The "Pastimes" began, in Hall, at the end of term.

1871.1.—A system of marking for Paper Chases was introduced.

Harrow, the ultimate winners, beat us at Prince's.

1871.2.—The Eleven beat the Masters for the first time.

The School broke up a month before time on account of the scarlet fever.

1871.3.—First Haileybury Scratch Fours at Cambridge.

Suggestion that "Edmonstone" and the other House names should be used instead of "Mr. Couchman's" and so on, in the Blue Book. [There was then much difficulty in prevailing on people to use the House names.]

197 volumes of the old East India College Library were presented by the India Office.

1872.1.—The Modern Side was finally arranged in forms like the classical. (Its designations had been various — "Modern Form," "English Form," "Modern School—Upper, Middle, Lower.")

1872.2.—Athletics held this term on account of the wet weather.

Beaten by Uppingham. U. 394; H. 43 and 81.

The Gymnasium was refitted and placed, with the School of Arms, under the care of an instructor. [It was before open to any one without supervision, and the floor was some feet deep in tan. The School of Arms, which was run up as a temporary building when Mr. Arthur Butler found that Sergeant Campbell, of the Mounted Police, could box, disappeared in February, 1887.]

We beat Wellington after a most exciting finish, when Wellington had three wickets to fall and nine runs to get. Hodgson and Hill shared the bowling honours. H. 121 and 75; W. 69 and 123.

Wellington won Double Racquets, Haileybury Singles.

Bengeo played Hailey House and were beaten.

Proposal for a "Restoration" day for lost and "borrowed" books.

1872.3.—N. S. S. started on November 6th. R. W. Bowyer, Esq., President. F. Podmore, Secretary. Committee, G. J. Howson, W. E. Smith, H. E. Wingfield.

"Books to be read next term" first added at the end of the Blue Book.

1873.1.—"Agra Mission" started, with Rev. F. J. Hall as Secretary and Treasurer.

The "Red Book" began.

Hailey House Athletics.

J. R. Twisden read the first paper at the N. S. S. on "Structure and Classification of Phoenogamous Plants."

Extraordinary meeting of N. S. S. for discussion of "Helix Pomatia," or edible snails, from Gallows Hill.

1873.2.—Beaten by Uppingham. H. 160 and 59; U. 169 and 53. J. W. Ewing 58 and 11.

Beaten by Wellington. H. 45 and 75; W. 237, and lost the Racquets as well.

"Six elevens" started, with a captain to arrange the matches.

Hailey House Concert.

1873.3.—Red Book came out with Home addresses.

"Carmen Haileyburiense" published.

O.H.s. at Cambridge played C. C. C. This was seemingly the first O.H. football match at either University.

1874.1.—The "Antiquarian Society" was founded. Rev. F. B. Butler, President; H. B. Cotterill, Esq., L. S. Milford, and E. W. Howson, Committee; G. C. P. Williams Freeman, Secretary.

Proposal for a Pavilion on Terrace Ground.

G. Gray came as Racquet Professional.

Beaten by Wellington at Prince's; only a difference of two points at the end.

1874.2.—On May 5th first meeting of the Antiquarian Society. E. W. Howson read a paper on "The Misereres of Chester, Exeter, and Worcester;" and L. S. Milford on "History and Antiquities of East Knoyle."

Catalogue of Library published.

We avenged many defeats in the Wellington match—W. 62 and 46; H. 435. C. Gurdon, 152 not out; C. J. Blomfield, 53; J. W. Ewing, 55.

Proposal for Archery Club.

In the holidays Haileybury played its first, and at present only, match in London. We beat Rossall at the Oval. R. 74 and 59; H. 234. H. A. Hodgson, the bowler, 84.

1874.3.—The Presidency of the Literary Society was made elective.

Offices of "Chronicler" and "Custodian" created in Antiquarian Society.

"LX" caps now called "XL" caps.

Prefects ceased to be ex-officio on Big Side.

Proposed that the XI have badges.

The School went down to see the Prince and Princess of Wales pass through Hertford on November 28th.

Death of Mr. Jones, December 11th. [An in memoriam appeared in Haileyburian, vol. iii. pp. 53-55. The pulpit in chapel was erected to his memory. A brass plate with an inscription was put up near the pulpit in March, 1887.]

1875.1.—The rule about XI badges was cancelled.

O.H. club started.

1875.2.—Uppingham, 214; H. 69 and 80.

Wellington match drawn: W. 91 and 130; H. 105 and 99 for three wickets; L. S. Newmarch, 52 not out.

Archery Club started.

1875.3.—Presentation of "Haunchus" to President of Antiquarian Society.

G. M. Merivale gave a Challenge Cup for Racquets.

Two teams of Old Boys for the first time.

Jones Memorial, limited to five shillings apiece, reached £103.

Proposal that photographs of XI and XX should be framed and hung under the lists in Gymnasium and Pavilion; and that the XX should be changed to XV.

The Pastimes were held in the "New Great School."

[The back way up into the studies, so convenient for those who lingered late in the Bath or Grub Shop, had been closed for some years, and now a new block had been fitted in, comprising the Lawrence and Edmonstone Masters' rooms and other necessaries for those Dormitories, and a new Great School in front. A yawning chasm for a time replaced the old Great

School, which was itself the Library of the East India College. In old days the Preparation Master stepped straight from Common Room into the Great School—into which the boys could precede him or, it must be added, follow him through the friendly curtain which waved at the door.]

1876.1.—"The new Chapel has at length been begun. The first sod was turned by the Master during the Christmas holidays, and the first three bricks were laid by the first three boys on Tuesday, February 8th."

Letter against loafing, and in favour of more organized exercise in Easter term.

1876.2.—"Haileybury Verses" (first series) published.

Harrow beat us at Prince's.

First "letter" from Oxford.

First Haileybury Scratch Fours at Oxford.

Mr. H. B. Cotterill lectured before starting for Lake Nyanza.

Mr. Bradby's new application of "Bis dat qui cito dat" in speaking of Chapel Subscriptions.

Draw with Wellington: H. 163 and 217; W. S. Gurney, 62, and W. D. Hamilton, 64. W. 146 and 56 for five wickets.

We beat Wellington at Racquets.

"Games" rather than "Houses" advocated on Little Side at Football.

1876.3.—"Games" adopted.

Suggestion of "Bars" for football; that the province of the "Occasional Notes" should be enlarged.

1877.1.—The idea of forming an old Wellingtonian and an old Haileyburian Social Club at Oxford finally abandoned.

Oxford O.H.s. v. Cambridge O.H.s. at Oxford, March 14.

Proposal for Lawn Tennis Club; for House Ribbon to be restricted to House XI's; for House Quartettes.

R. T. Allen presented Quarter-mile Challenge Cup.

1877.2.—Singing competition instituted. Lawrence won quartette with R. T. Milford, E. H. Montresor, C. G. N. Trollope, F. W. Hayne. W. D. Hamilton won treble, W. R. Pollock bass solo. Both in Trevelyan.

"The paths are gradually being laid with asphalt, a great improvement to the hard and uneven gravel. Outside the quadrangle we find the terrace field enlarged" (the tall elm near the dell was the original limit) "and the whole place opened out by the removal of unnecessary wall and paling. But to crown the whole we have at last obtained the great object of our desires, and the dome of a new Chapel towers above our heads in simple but stately grandeur."

The Chapel was consecrated on June 27, and it was permanently used after July 15.

Haileybury passed into the new diocese of S. Albans.

We were beaten by Uppingham. U. 278; H. 48 and 56.

Drew with Wellington. H. 107 and 146 (M. H. Jackson, 27 and 37); W. 124 and 57 for seven wickets.

First match v. M.C.C.

1877.3.—XV started and consequently the "XXX" superseded the XL.

G. Dorset retired from his post as porter, and was presented by the School with a clock, and purse of £16. G. Campbell left the School of Arms and succeeded to the lodge.

The organ fund was started.

"House Grounds" proposed for cricket.

1878.1.—House athletics started.

Beaten by Harrow at Prince's.

1878.2.—Beaten by Wellington. W. 103 and 30; H. 36 and 41.

O.H.s had a cricket week in France.

Proposal to have one day a week reserved for form matches.

1878.3.—Burning of the Chapel, Friday, October 4th. The following account appeared in the Haileyburian:—

THE FIRE.

"Our holy and our beautiful house is burned up with fire."—Isaiah lxiv. 11.
"Violent fires soon burn out themselves."—Shak. Richard II.

On Friday, October the 4th, a terrible disaster befell us. To prevent any unwarrantable exaggeration of the circumstances, we will print them here as accurately and concisely as we can. In a word, our beautiful dome, built after so much deliberation, and at so great an expense, has been suddenly burnt down; but the walls of the chapel, and the octagon on which it rested, have, as far as we can judge at present, not suffered seriously. The causes of the disaster have been clearly explained. For a few days past the ventilator in the centre of the dome has been under repair. A skilled and experienced workman, who had superintended the building of the dome, and understood its construction, was sent down by the contractors to do the work. On Friday, the 4th, at about a quarter to five, he had completed his task, and was making his way with difficulty along the narrow beams which were laid at intervals above the plaster of the inner dome, when his foot slipt, and the lighted candle, with the aid of which he had been doing his work, flew from his hand against the hair-felt, with which the shaft connecting the ventilator with the cupola was cased, and at once ignited it. A great flame burst forth, which the unfortunate man strove to quell with his coat and the carpet on which he had been kneeling. But it was of no avail, the fire was spreading rapidly. He stopped in the dome till he was nearly suffocated, and then rushed down to summon all the aid he could. Soon after five o'clock the fire had been observed in all the form-rooms, and the whole school was in the quadrangle, every one wishing to do some good, but few finding any work to do in the first moments of excitement.

The eagle and the harmonium had been removed, and also as many books as could be got at without danger, for already the hot lead was falling fast. Happily what little wind there was happened to be in the right direction, and blew the flames towards the north away from the surrounding buildings. Our own engine was soon on the scene, and was supplied with water by the cistern. Meanwhile bicyclists or riders had started for Ware, Hertford, and Hoddesdon ; and before or soon after six the engines from these three towns had appeared. About this time the flames were at their highest, and to any one who could for a moment forget the awfulness of the disaster, the spectacle was indeed grand and beautiful. There was, as it seemed, a transparent network of fire, for just the outline of the woodwork and the lantern was visible.

Every minute the great flaming beams came thundering down upon the oak seats and flooring below. As the engines could not possibly reach to the top of the dome, they had been deluging the walls and seats, and the interior of the chapel. They were supplied for the most part by long lines of boys, who passed on one side the full, on the other the empty buckets. Water was at first procured thus from the Moorhen Pond until the water was found too dirty for use. Then lines were formed to the water tower, and subsequently very long ones to the bath, and these last worked hard at the tiring task of passing and repassing heavy buckets from about half-past six till half-past nine. By that time the fire had been got well under, though the flames had not quite gone down, and there was no further dread of its spreading. Our own engine, which had been supplied from the cistern, was working well, and the drenching of the lower parts of the Chapel had prevented the downward spreading of the fire.

By ten o'clock the dense crowd which had assembled began to disperse, and the boys were hurrying off to the dormitories, as their assistance could now be dispensed with.

During the night a careful watch was kept, and two of the fire-engines were at hand in case of a further outbreak, but fortunately none occurred. In the morning the only external signs of the fire were a faint smouldering, and the octagon, with its elegant brickwork scarcely scorched at all, standing out bare against the sky. It was wonderful to notice how clean the action of the fire had been ; it had just burnt away the dome and nothing more. But the view inside was certainly appalling, though we were thankful to see how apparently little damage had befallen the walls and the carving. The seats were covered with the débris, which awaited the inspection of the insurance officers. Still more plainly from within could we see how accurately the fire had swept away the dome, while the octagon was scarcely touched. Not a window was broken, except those which had been purposely pierced for the admission of the pipes. Two of the seats were utterly burnt ; but the greater part of them, though much soiled, had escaped the violence of the fire, by the opportune drenching they had received. The altar appeared totally unhurt. The carving, though much disordered, was scarcely chipped. The gas standards were for the most part wrenched down by the weight of the falling timber. The nave had escaped all damage from the fire, and only bore signs of the water with which it had been soaked. So much for the bare account, imperfect as it is, of this melancholy mishap. The members of the school have publicly received the thanks of the Master for their ready assistance. But surely it was the bounden duty of each boy to do what he could at such a moment. Probably also the men who worked so willingly at the engines have received thanks enough. Many of us can bear witness to the energy and devotion with which the servants of the College did their work, and especially to the brave efforts of the originator of the fire. For one thing we must be especially thankful —our providential preservation from any loss of life, amongst all the dangers of so terrible a fire. . . . . . .

O.H. club gave up Football.

The N.S.S. and Antiquarian held their first combined Exhibition in the Big School.

F. W. Bourdillon's "Among the Flowers," the first O.H. volume of poetry, was published.

Suggestion to have age only as standard for athletics.

1879.1.—"The Rev. E. H. Bradby has been installed Honorary Canon of S. Alban's Cathedral." (There are no other Canons, owing to the Cathedral's recent accession to Diocesan rank.)

The Berkhampstead Run was revived after a lapse of four years.

Small temporary organ in chapel.

"Madrigal Club" started.

In Memoriam to Coghill and Hodson started.

Suggestion for a panel in Chapel for recording the names of O.H.s who have died.

The 100 yards was run in strings for the first time.

At Prince's Haileybury beat Winchester, but was beaten by the winners, Harrow.

1879.2.—Lower Ground Cup presented by Mr. Fenning.

"Of the Big Side games there is simply nothing to record, as the ground has been so dreadfully wet that none have been played for weeks."

Beaten by Uppingham on a soaking wicket, near the Field Racquet Court. U. 64 and 62; H. 25 and 66. G. W. Rawlins played through the innings for 26.

On Speech Day the "sumptuous luncheon" of former years gave way to lighter refreshments in tents.

Wellington beat us by eight wickets.

Proposal to have Caffyn as "cricket coach and barber."

A tablet in memory of J. H. Pratt was put up in Chapel, the first of its kind here. A prize for Greek Verse was founded to beat his name.

In the holidays C. D. Argles, Esq., was drowned in the Thames near Cookham. A tablet in Chapel and a Hexameter prize perpetuate his name.

1879.3.—In the Editorial we read;—"It is only a year since the foundations of the new buildings were laid, but they have gradually grown, been finished, and are now opened and in use. The middle of the three new dormitories is occupied entirely by new boys, with two prefects drafted in from other houses; while the top and half of the lower is temporarily filled with Hailey House boys, as their House has been partly pulled down to be re-built on a different system."

The new organ was opened by Mr. P. H. Diemer.

"The name of the new House which is opened is "Batten House," and the cap is orange stripes on an olive ground." (This faded too rapidly and so the present colour was adopted.)

"L.M. ii. and the third forms have been divided into two parallel divisions to accommodate the increased numbers of the School."

Besides other changes the loggias were blocked up, the gallery was built in Hall, "Elysium" and Study Number 2 were thrown into one form room, the 4 Study passages were made into two, and three single studies were gained by the closing of two entrances. Six new fives courts were built to replace the old ones into which the non-quad studies used to look. (See a letter on "New Haileybury," Haileyburian, vol. iv. pp. 325, 326.)

"House Annals" proposed.

Cock House match, owing to frost, had to be decided on one day's play.

1880.1.—Le Bas House opened.

Proposal for each house to practise a glee for the singing competition; for successful bowlers to be rewarded in House matches as well as successful batsmen.

House paper chases introduced.

First O.H. dinner, in March.

1880.2.—"Hailey House is now in use again, and takes its place among the other houses." [In old days Hailey was the house for the Lower School—as Thomason was for the smaller boys in College. From each boys were drafted on to other houses.]

Melvill House opened.

Chapel Decorations unveiled.

New Library used this term.

Wellington, 121 and 65; H. 55 and 32.

Uppingham, 258; H. 71 and 96.

First year of the "Gentlemen of Herts."

On Speech Day "a large tent on one of the grass plots replaced the famous pent house."

The first flower show was held.

Pesidency of Literary Society—lately held ex-officio by Head of the School—made elective.

Proposal to change from House XX.s to XV.s.

Jones memorial pulpit put in Chapel.

1880.3.—Suggestions that each study should keep a record of former inhabitants; that "stars" should be abolished; that pent-houses for football coats be erected; that objects of general art be admitted to the exhibition of the two societies: that House matches last only one day (instead of possibly three), and be decided by the score at the end of the day; that there be draws for little side football; that there be a list of leaving fellows in the first Haileyburian of each term; that there be Association Football in Easter term; that there be Inter-house Gymnastics; that there be a systematic record of O.H.s.

1881.1.—The School re-assembled with much punctuality in spite of the great snow storm.

Hockey started.

Inter-house Gymnastics began.

A mixed scheme of height and age introduced for athletics.

3rd Set Quarter replaced 3rd Set 200 yards.

Secretaries of Athletics, Cricket, and Football decided upon.

Organ finally completed by addition of Cornopean stop.

Junior Literary Society started. President, R. G. Legge. Vice-President, E. Malden. Secretary, A. C. Blomfield. Committee, W. A. Wheeler, J. T. W. Perowne.

Suggestions that "Middle Game" at cricket be abolished; that the walls of the Bat Fives Courts be washed with some darker colour.

J. S. Whatton offered a Racquet Challenge Cup in place of the one which R. V. Steward had won for three successive years.

First "Praeteritus" letter.

Death of George Dorset, aged 72. A tablet was put up in Chapel to his memory, and the remainder of the Memorial fund was paid in quarterly instalments to his widow. For In Memoriam see Haileyburian, vol. v. pp. 104-105.

1881.2.—The Exhibitions were increased in number, and Senior Scholarships instituted.

The old black palings before Hailey House were replaced by railings.

Suggestion that Little Side should play during foreign matches; that there should be a place where names could be cut by a recognized authority for a definite sum; that there be encouragement given to drawing, painting, and piano playing.

The "Rising Sun" in Hailey Lane became College property, and was changed into cottages.

The Uppingham match was given up, and measles prevented us from playing Wellington.

Hailey had its first member of School XI.

1881.3.—A Ceylon O.H. suggests that the "Haileyburian should appoint agents or correspondents in each colony."

Drill on the Terrace.

"Melvill have exchanged their four pink stripes, which faded too quickly, for four red."

"Hailey House has now got two home-grown prefects."

Suggestion that the various Houses should give Entertainments in turn in the Big School; that some brief account of the origin and aim of the present school should be prefixed to the Blue-book; that there should be headings to letters in Haileyburian; that the divisions of the forms should be inserted in the Red-book.

The "New Field" was in use this term, being approached by a flat bridge near the Field Racquet Court.

A fearful storm of wind.

"Little Twenties" (afterwards called "2nd XX's") began.

"Prefects Book" started.

Library Tickets first issued.

"Reading Room" gained its first recognition in the pages of the Haileyburian.

Hailey, which was Cock House, did not have a single try scored against them.

1882.1.—"Haileybury Psalter" brought out.

"'Sally's,' both upper and lower, is now a thing of the past."

First Concert of Junior Literary Society.

Melvill revived the custom of House Athletics in the Avenue.

House Entertainments started on Saturday evenings, by the House for the House.

White flannel shirts no longer restricted to Big Side.

1882.2.—The School took over the management of the Grub Shop.
The New Houses Glee Club gave their first annual concert.
"O.H. Gymnasium and Pavilion Fund" started.
Proposal for a School Register; that the O.H. dinner should be held on one night of University match.

Controversy on "Questionable Questions."

"Could an occasional hour be given in form to an explanation of every-day events as they appear in the newspapers?"

Dr. Bradby announced his retirement. The following appeared in the Haileyburian:—

DR. BRADBY'S RETIREMENT.

"It is idle to attempt to conceal the fact that our Christmastide this year is overshadowed by a sense of bereavement. In a few days, we might almost say hours, after these lines are published, the link which has bound generation after generation of Haileyburians to a honoured and beloved Head Master will be finally severed. Before the year is out Dr. Bradby's official connection with our School will have terminated. It is not our purpose, nor would it be altogether becoming, to indulge in anything approaching to a critical survey of the career of him whose impending departure we so deeply deplore. The history of Haileybury has yet to be written, and until that task is accomplished, we can hardly hope that full justice will be done to the work of one of her twin-founders. Ours be it to indicate a few of the debts of gratitude which we owe to him. Assuming the reins of government early in 1868, and armed with the experience of a Harrow House Master, Mr. Bradby found himself face to face with a problem of no ordinary difficulty. Haileybury had been in existence for less than six years, and had started from nothing, yet it was a very marvel of precocity, and those who had the opportunity of studying its inner life and the material already formed, felt safe in predicting that no ordinary University distinctions would fall to its lot. A great position was in course of being achieved in a country where public schools were already so numerous and excellent, and it is not too much to say that the world at large began to regard ours in Hertfordshire with interest and expectation. No Haileyburian needs to be told that this achievement was due in a great measure to the devotion of Mr. Butler to the creation of a worthy companion to Marlborough and Wellington, and to the incessant labour involved in the enterprise. The success so far as it went was complete, but it was purchased at the heavy cost of his health. He resigned his post, or rather repeated a former unaccepted resignation, and Mr. Bradby succeeded to his responsiblities and to his as yet unfinished work. The position had been gained, but it had to be strengthened and maintained, and even to be boldly extended. An ordinary man might have been content to allow the school to go on just as it was, and being numerically weak, and having no other traditions than those of recent growth, in course of time it might have subsided into a large private school, producing its quota of trained scholars, but doing little to infuse a worthy spirit into the hearts of young Englishmen. A 'doctrinaire,' on the other hand, might have overturned the existing order of things, and have endeavoured to reconstruct the institution on entirely new lines. Mr. Bradby's course was essentially diverse from either of these. Cordially accepting the conditions of the situation, entering fully into the large views and aims of his predecessor—he resolved that Haileybury should flourish, and flourish as an English public school; he set to work to consolidate and systematise, to prune and develope, and in all such development to pave the way for the greater extension which he felt was inevitable. What he wished Haileybury boys, and therefore the Haileybury men to be, may be gathered from the following extract from his beautiful 'Carmen Haileyburiense'—

'Felix prole suâ, viris
Felix qui patriam colant,
Qui Deum venerentur,
Haileyburia floreat.'—

Looking back now over the 16 years of his administration of our school, and reckoning up the long tale of those who have come up under his influence, and who are now, here or elsewhere, endeavouring to do justice to the lessons taught by his precept and example, we venture with all respect to congratulate him on having in no small degree attained his lofty ideal, on having nobly won his noble purposes. Hitherto we have spoken of Dr. Bradby's mastership in somewhat general terms. We feel we shall not now weary our readers if we now lightly touch on a few of the leading incidents of his reign. As has been already said, it was early in 1868 that he came into residence, and we note with pride, that within two months of that event, the first number of our School Magazine appeared in print. In the third number it will be observed that mention is made of the fact that Speech-day was attended by a larger assemblage than previously, and this phenomenon is attributed to 'a general wish to do honour to our New Head Master.' This is interesting, as indicating from the first that he had the good will of the council and the county. In November, 1868, the 'Literary Society' was started under Mr. Bradby's auspices, and this was but the precursor of other institutions of a kindred nature. Thus, in 1872, the 'Natural Science Society' first saw light, to be followed after an interval by the 'Antiquarian Society,' while the 'Indian Mission'—valuable as a link with the country where the name of Haileybury has long been held in honour—was also organized in 1872. These may appear to outsiders very trivial affairs, but to us at Haileybury they are a boon, and like all else that flourishes here, they owe much to the master spirit of the place. The great movement, however, with which Dr. Bradby's name will be especially and permanently associated is our New Chapel. Keeping in view the inevitable increase in the numbers of the school, he not only arranged for the provision of dwelling-houses, and rooms for study, but also devoted infinite pains to securing a worthy place of worship.

Early in 1874 the first note of appeal for aid was sounded, in three months nearly £4000 had been subscribed; in January, 1876, the work was commenced, and on the ever-memorable 27th of June, 1877, the new and stately building was consecrated. The burning down of the dome in the following year is an incident which scarcely calls for mention here, save in that, owing to the indomitable spirit of our Master, it was a mere accident, and that no unworthy compromise was made in its re-erection. In mention with this subject it may be recorded that in March, 1879, Mr. Bradby was installed as Honorary Canon of S. Albans; and that last year he received the distinction of Doctor of Divinity. For a notice of the leading facts of the latter part of the period under review we commend our readers to an article in our impression of March 25th, 1882, entitled 'What the last few years have done at Haileybury.' In this seven years' retrospect reference is made to the opening of the new buildings in the Christmas term, 1879, and the consequent simultaneous development of the school by a system of parallel forms. On this and on kindred topics we would gladly dwell, did space permit, but for the present we must content ourselves with pointing out that the opening of the chapel and the enlargement of the school were but the crowning acts of a settled policy for the development of the school on a broad and lasting basis. Dr. Bradby may indeed be well satisfied with the success of his work, and though his voluntary and we can well believe self-sacrificing act of retirement from the scene of his labour, deprives him of reaping all their fruits, yet even when absent from our midst, we know full well that his mind will often turn to those whom he loved so truly, and for whose highest interests he worked so unceasingly. Let him be assured in turn that his influence will ever abide in their hearts, and that, if they need an additional incentive to manly effort in the world that lies before them, it will be furnished them by the thought that wherever their lot may be cast, they may do credit to their school, and to him to whom that school was so incomparably dear.

We cannot conclude our imperfect expression of the thoughts which at this juncture occupy the minds of Haileyburians, without tendering our acknowledgments to Mrs. Bradby and her family for the rare tact with which they have helped on our school life. The rôle that they have played has been important, and although in the nature of things they have been debarred from participation in a large portion of our duties and pleasures, yet, wherever their influence could be exercised with advantage, it has been bestowed graciously and without stint. Not only those elder ones among us, who have seen more of Mrs. Bradby, and known her better, but every one who has been laid up here by illness or accident, will always remember with gratitude her kindness and attention.

And now if we have written with greater freedom than is customary in such a publication as the Haileyburian, we trust that, in the eyes of him whom we are anxious to honour, the occasion—to us indeed a sad one—will be considered an excuse. Much that we should like to say we feel compelled to leave unsaid, but we have already far exceeded our accustomed limits. We are sure that Dr. Bradby knows what is uppermost in our hearts, and therefore it only remains that in the name of those who have been so proud to work under his auspices, in that of every present and past member of the School, in that of the parents whose trust has been so justified and rewarded, we bid him and his a cordial, a grateful, a sorrowful Farewell.

Dr. Bradby had a fall from his horse, but was able in spite of all advice to read through the lists as usual, and then, "instead of the familiar phrase, 'The School will leave in the usual order,' went out first amid the heartiest cheers ever heard at Haileybury."

1884.1.—Death of Rev. H. St. John Reade.

Retirement of Rev. L. Deedes.

I heard of Mr. Deedes's resignation too late to make the necessary correction at the beginning of the book. Haileybury from the very first has had good cause to be grateful to him for his unwearying interest, and I personally have met with much kind help from him in compiling this Register.

L. S. MILFORD.

October 7, 1887.

Index to the Register.

[The names of those who have died are printed in Italics.]

PLURA ETIAM ADDENDA.

[I find from the Index that several Highfield names were never entered in the Secretary's book, and so I fear that there may be some even now which have been unintentionally omitted from the Register.]

Bacon, Henry, b. Nov. 28, 1865, son of Rev. F. Bacon, Much Hadham Hall, Ware, Herts.

Highfield, 1880.2, L.M.ii.—1883.3, V.2. Trinity College, Cambridge.

Blagrave, J. C., b. Jan. 1864, son of E. H. Blagrave, Esq., 5, Crick Road, Oxford.
